Miller & Rhoads.

Miller & Rhoads.

More of the Extraordinary 50c. and $1.00 Soft Shirts for Saturday.

We might fill this page with talk about these Negligee Shirts, but it wouldn't have any effect whatever unless the Shirts themselves were

On second thought, it would have an effect and a bad one, too, if the garments were not up to their newspaper reputation.

We're content with simply stating that the colors and patterns are in the newest and best shades and styles.

We know where the Shirts were made-the care exercised in the fit and finish-and we can confidently stake our reputation for knowing good Shirts on the fact that these 50c and $1.00 garments are the best Shirts at these prices that we've ever had.

The whole window frontage of the store will be in gala dress with

"The One Woman"

The new book by Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., author of "The Leopard Spots,"

On Sale Saturday Morning. Publishers Price $1.50. Our Price $1.08.

Miss Alice Flippen, of this city, is the Miss Roberta Ellerson is visiting Miss Flora Whittle, the daughter of Judge Whittle, of the Supreme Court, at Miss Whittle's home, in Martinsville.

Mrs. Mann S. Valentine and Colonel Valentine expect to attend the Governor's ball on August 5th, at the Jordan White Sulphur Springs, near Winchester, Va-

Major Stringfellow and the Misses Stringfellow will spend August at the White Sulphur Springs, Miss Bell Perkins, who is the guest of Mrs. R. C. Macon, attended the Orange Horse Show in Mrs. Macon's box.

Mrs. Isalah White is at Mrs. McCue's, near Greenwood, Va., where she usually spends her summers.

Misses Alta and Katherine Foster left yesterday for Atlantic City.

ficiating.
Mr. and Mrs. Tatum left on a Northern

Be Closed a Month.

The library of the Virginia Mechanics' Institute will be closed during the month of August, and reopened the first of September.

He Has Enough Cases to

Keep Him Busy for Several Hours.

Justice John had a plenty of work to engage his attention yesterday morning.

He was on the bench several hours with the criminal docket, and then entertained

ENTERT AINED

JUSTICE JOHN

We have several hundred $1.50 Copyright Books that we offer for 50c each among them being "Vivian of Virginia," "Stephen Holton," "Continental Dra-

Social and

Mr. E. B. Sydnor returned Thursday night from a day very pleasantly spent at the Orange Horse Show.

Mrs. R. T. Hunter and Miss Elizabeth S. Hunter are now at the Jefferson Park Hotel for a short visit.

Misses Mary Willis and Bessie Ludwell Booker, of Hampton, Va., who assisted Mrs. Hagan, the chairman of the Missouri table, during the Confederate Bazaar, and were much admired while in Richmond, were the hostesses this week of a brilliant and largely attended german at Buckroe Beach Hotel. Miss Emily Gravatt and Miss Virginia Chamberlayne were two pretty Richmond representatives among the number of the guests present.

Miss Annie Lee and Miss Jennie Holt are visiting Miss Effie Wright in Ports-mouth.

Mrs. Robert O. Dyer has returned to Richmond, after some time spent at the Booker cottage, Buckros Beach.

Mr. John Garland Pollard, who is engaged in writing a supplement to the Code of Virginia, is spending several weeks in Lexington, Va.

Mrs. Chiles Ferrall, who is spending some time at the Tuggle's cottage, Virginia Beach, was among the guests at a card party given this week at Mrs. George M. Pollard's cottage.

Mrs. John R. Powell is visiting friends in Houston, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kemp will spend a part of August in Lexington. He is the special deputy grand regent of Vir-ginia for the Royal Arcanum.

Miss Effie Elliot has returned from two-months' stay with friends in Bed-

Mr. Herbert Nelson is at his home, near Richmond, after having been the guest of relatives in Gloucester county.

Miss Mittle James, of this city, with her chaperone, Miss Pegram, has returned from her attendance upon the School of Methods at Charlottesville, Va.

Miss Blanche and Miss Laurie Suther-land are visiting the Miss Baker, in Charlottesville.

Miss Evelyn Gray Bell and Miss Ellett are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Valentine at their beautiful country home, near Charlottesville.

Mrs. J. G. Jefferson, of Amelia, is vis-iting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vir-

Miss Susie Brett, of Hampton.

Mr. F. G. Pollard has gone for a visit of several weeks to relatives in Lancaster county.

A delightful dance, in which Dr. Proctor and Dr. Hopkins, the resident physicians of St. Luke's Hospital, were hosts, celebrated the closing of the hospital for the summer.

Miss Lillian Jenkins and Mr. Edwin schefer were married Thursday by the Rev. George Cooper, in the home of the bride's uncle. Mr. William Jenkins. The bride and groom are spending the honeymoon at Hot Springs, Va.

Dr. Marmaduke Atkinson, of Hampton,

CHANGE.

Quit Coffee and Get Well.

A woman's coffee experience is inter-erting. "For two weeks at a time I have taken no food but skim milk, for solid food would ferment and cause such a pressure of gas and such distress that I could hardly breathe at times; also ex-crudating pain and heart palpitation, and all the time I was so nervous and rest-lets.

cruciating pain and heart palpitation, and all the time I was so nervous and restlers.

"From childhood up I had been a coffee and tea drinker, and for the past twenty years I have been trying different physicians, but could get only temporary relief. Then I read an article telling how some one had been cured by leaving off coffee and drinking Postum, and it seemed so pleasant just to read about good health I decided to try Postum in place of coffee.

"I made the change from coffee to Postum, and such a change there is in mothat I don't feel like the same person. We all found Postum delicious and like it better than coffee. My health now is wonderfully good.

"As soon as I made the shift from coffee to Postum I got better, and now all of my troubles are gone. I am fleshy, my food assimilates, the pressure in the chest and palpitation are all gone, my bowels are regular, have no more stomach trouble and my headaches are gone. Hemember, I did not use medicines at all-just left off coffee and drank Postum steadily." Name given by Postum Co. Battle Creek, Mich.

Bend to the company for particulars by mail of extension of time on the $7,500 goods contest for 755 money prizes.

"WHAT'S IN A NAME?" A West Indian

By PHILIP LITTLE.-Copyright by Author.

done, papa?

"I cannot answer your quostion, Kate, until I have seen McDermott and been down to the shore."
"There is no doubt but that there was "No doubt whatsoever: and I should say that there had been a tidal wave, by the sound of the roaring water. It was so dark that I could not see anything. The wind howled for a short time, thing. The wind howied for a snort time, and I expected a blow, but it suddenly ceased, and I went to bed, knowing that there was no use in attempting to do anything until morning."

Mr. Archibald Montague raised the cup thing until morning."

Mr. Archibald Montague raised the cup of coffee to his lips which he had been holding during this brief conversation, and, finishing it, lighted a cigar as he said, "But we shall find out nothing by sitting here, and none of those lazy negroes will think of coming up to report, so let us go down to the sugar-house and see for ourselves."

He rose and picked up his hat from a chair on the broad veranda upon which they had been seated, and, followed by his daughter, started down the path at the side of the house.

The incline was steep, and the path wound through thick masses of wines and underbrush, only to be found in the tropical latitudes. As they came in sight of the buildings, of which we have spoken, a tall, fine looking negro was seen emerging from the door of a small house. He stretched himself, and then catching sight of the figures of the Montagues approaching, he stepped forward, hat in hand.

"I expected to see you at the house."

hand.
"I expected to see you at the house when I was dressed, McDermott," said Montague. "Why have you delayed?"
"I ask pardon, sah," was the respectful reply. "I overslept myself, sah. I was up late."
"What has happened?" asked the other guickly.

"Nothing that I know of as yet, sah," "Nothing that I know of as yet, san, answered the colored man. "Dar was a slight earthquake las' night, an' I feared trouble, so I sat up. It was very slight, but thar was a great rearing of de water. Dat mus' have been a tidal wave, but it was too dark to see what was going on." going on."
"No damage to the buildings, then, by Springs.

Miss Lula Houston is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Mary Atkins, of Epworth, King William county. "No, suh; none dat I could find las' night, and I go all ober dem with a lan-Miss Lou Belle Catesby Jones will spend a part of August at the country home of Miss Lucy Coleman, near Buckner's, Va. Miss Ellie Ellyson is already the guest of Miss Coleman.

night, and I go all ober dem with a lantern."

"Let us go down to the river bank and see if there are any signs of it there. You have not been?"

"No, sah, I just wake up. I had but tree hours' sleep, sah."

"Well, well, that is all right. A man can do but just so muca. Come along, Kate; we will go down and see what there is to be seen."

They moved off past the main buildings and turned into the road leading to the shore.

A party of young ladies well known in Richmond, including Misses Douthat, Harvie and Bendall, of Danville, chaperoned by Miss Ellie Bouldin, will leave in the next few days to travel for several weeks in Skyland, Western North Carolina, along the banks of the French Broad River. "Good heavens!" exclaimed the planter, as he paused on reaching the brow of the slight incline which led directly to the water's edge. "What is that? A vessel?"

He stopped short, as did the others, for he could scarcely believe his eyes, nor realize that the sight in front of him From 5:30 to 8 P. M. to-day a water-melon feast will be given on their lawn by the members of the Virginia Club. The occasion will, no doubt, be very pleas-ant.

was not an illusion.

It was at this moment that Jennings had caught sight of them.

"A vessel on the island!" exclaimed McDermott. "There mus' have been a tidal wave, sah! Her topmas' has gone, sah, an' dey is two men on her, sah. See, sah! Dey has seen us, an' is wavin' dere han's."

Mrs. Edward Alvey and the Misses Alvey are much pleased with their sur-roundings at Crozet, Va. Mrs. Alvey's little son, who was quite sick when he left here, has greatly improved.

see, sah! Dey has seen us, an' is wavin' dere han's."

The three hurried down to the water's edge to where the boat usually was, but it had gone. The tidal wave had carried it away.

"What shall we do?" cried Montague.

"We must get to them. They have no boat that I can see."

"Dere is a dugout up in der shed, sah. I will get a couple of han's an' bring her down to der bank," said McDermott, as he hastened away.

"But papa," said Kate, still gazing with wide open eyes at the brig, "how could so large a vessel be carried up onto the island?"

"She was brought up in the tidal onto the island?"

"She was brought up in the tidal wave, child; that is simple enough. It is wonderful that is simple enough. It is wonderful that she was not smashed into kindling wood. Her rigging and spars have suffered as it is, and her boats have been swept away from her. There must have been more than two men on her originally, so it has evidently been much worse with her than with us. We must have had the end of the storm. Perhaps the slight earthquake had some effect. It is beyond me, I must admit."

McDermott and two negroes, followed Mrs. W. W. Lefew, Masters Walter Lefew and William Lefew left yesterday for Atlantic City.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bryan will be interested to hear that a cablegram received last Saturday forencon announced their safe arrival at Queenstown Friday evening.

Mr. John C. Tatum, Jr., of this city, and Miss Dalsy Blanche Nuckols were quietly married yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. William S. Davis, No. 2009 Hanover Street, Rev. Weston Bruner, of Calvary Baptist Church, officiating.

McDermott and two negroes, followed by several others, now appeared coming down the road at a rapid pace carry-ing the dugout between them. She was soon launched, and Montague and Kate were taken across the shallow river by the two men, who waded alongside.

the stream, the occupants of the brig were seen climbing down the bow of the vessel, as this seemed to be the easiest method of gaining the ground. Montague and his party landed, and met them midway between the wreck met them midway between the wreck and the shore.

"I have come," said the planter, "to offer you any assistance in my power. By what strange means did your vessel reach the spot where she now is? Was she borne there on a tidal wave?"

"Let me first thank you for your offer of assistance, which, as far as the brig is concerned, is, as you can imagine, quite useless. It is very kind of you, however, to come so quickly to our aid, and we thank you for it. As to our arrival here, it is an undecided question in our minds," and Rivers proceeded to briefly relate the circumstances of the night before.

"You can see," he said in conclusion or briefly relate the circumstances of the night before.

"You can see," he said in conclusion, "that our ideas upon the subject are somewhat indefinite."

"Are you aware that there was an earthquake last night?" asked Montague. "No!" replied the skipper. "That would account for the tidal wave, and nothing but a tidal wave could have brought us up to where we are."

"Absolutely nothing else. You were probably borne into the river, and uponto this island. Then the water receded and you stuck to the earth, which held you where you are."

"That sounds plausible," said Rivers. "But you must have had other men. Where are they?"

"That is more than I can tell you.

Where are they?"
"That is more than I can tell you. That we had more goes without saying, but where they went, and when, I cannot say. It is possible that had we been on deck when we rose into the air that we should have been scared enough to have jumped overboard, as we suppose that they did. But let me tell you who we are. My name is Rivers. I am the captain of the brig. I come from Massachusetts. My friend here is a passenger. His name is Jennings." "From London," added the younger

"From London," added the younger man.
"You are an Englishman, then," said Montague.
"I am," was the reply.
"So am I, by birth, though I have been here all my life. My name is Archibald Montague. This is my daughter, Miss Kate Montague. I trust that you will both make my house your home till you find where you wish to go next."

"We will not trespass upon your hospitality for the present, except for a meal or so," replied Rivers. "The brig is as good as a house, and we must plan what we will do."

"You do not trespass upon us in the least I shall seconds."

good as a house, and we must plan what we will do."

"You do not trespass upon us in the least. I shall consider it a favor. You do not know what a pleasure it is to see absolute strangers in this part of the world. I insist upon your being my guests. Kate, add your arts of persuasion to mine."

"I hope that you will accept papa's invitation," said the girl, smiling pleasanily at the two men. "He really wishes you to come, and it will, as he says, be a great favor if you do."

"I shall be glad to accept." said Ralph, "whether Rivers feels like leaving the brig or not. Come, captain, you had better take a shore cruise. You have had rather bad luck at sea this time."

"If it will please Mr. Montague, and if you are going, why I will go also. I do not care to fight it out alone on board the brig while she is on land. At sea it is another matter."

CHAPTER V.

That Ralph Jennings had been influenced in his acceptance of Montague's invitation by the presence of his daughter, it would be useless to deny. After they had crossed the stream and were again climbing the hill that led to the house. Rivers joined the planter, while the young Englishman walked with Kate.

"Yours was a most remarkable experience, Mr. Jennings," said the girl. turning a pair of large gray eyes upon him. "You must feel as though you had been snatched from the jaws of death almost and landed in a new world."

"I do, indeed, Miss Montague. While I understand from Captain Rivers that such things have happened before, or, at least, that vessels have been carried inland by tidal waves, it is one thing to hear of such an occurrence, another to have experienced it. When I came to this part of the world it was with the intention of making my way in life, and such is still the case, but I mist admit that at certain times last nicht, when we were being driven by the hurricane, which screamed and howled around us like a pack of demons hunting for a lost soul, I made up my mild that my career was at an end, as an Irishman would say, before it had any begin mark, but her face was full of sympathy as she said:

"It must have been fearful. We did not get the strength of it here, and had it not been for the casting up on the shore of your vessel, we should not have suspected the violence of it. We had a silght shock from the earthquake and some of the gale, but nothing such as you had. We live very quietly here, and like all places in these latitudes, the world moves slowly and quietly. We know little of what is going on outside of the island until some time after it has happened, unless it is a matter of great importance, and in some way affecting us. This is not a land of rapid progress."

"Perhaps it is just as well, Miss Montague; there is such a thing as being too fast."

"Yes," replied the girl, with a laugh.

inantion."

"True, but I had an idea that you people who live in the tropics preferred the slow, easy life."

"It is forced upon us, whether we like it or not. You must move slow in this part of the world, for if you do not you are alone. No one is ever in a hurry. Take papa, for instance, It is one long struggle to get anything done, Labor is hard to find. The people will not work."

"What is the reason?"

"They do not have to. Food is within

"What is the reason?"
"They do not have to. Food is within their reach for almost the stretching out of an arm. Look, for instance, at the breadfruit tree," pointing to a magnificent speciment that stood by the road-side. "There are such as that all over the country. Yams may be had for simply the digging, and it is so with everything."

thing."
"It is an earthly paradise, then."
"For the lazy, yes. But with work and care, it could be made rich and prosperous. Fruit can now be sent great distances easily, and this is one great fruit

'You should be a planter, Miss Mon-

"I am, almost. I am deeply interested in all that pertains to the welfare of this island. If the people were industrious, instead of living from day to day in a happy-go-lucky manner, the possibilities

The home of the Montagues was a one-story structure, with broad, shady ver-randas on all sides, and standing as it did on quite a lofty eminence, looking out over the sea upon one side and to-ward the mountains with a deep valley between the was coal and airy at all seaterrupted. between, it was cool and airy at all sea

As they stepped into the open space from the wooded path, the figure of a man on horseback was outlined against the sky in front of the house.

Kate gave a startled exclamation as she saw him, and involuntarily stopped. "Allan here," she said half aloud in a strained voice; "what does he want? Her father left Rivers' side and stepped quickly forward. "What do you want here?" he asked,

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 SHOE WADE "EQUAL OR BETTERETHAN OTHER $5.00 SHOES, J. B. Sweeney, Detective, of Albany, N.Y., Police, writes Mr. Douglas as follows:

Police, writes Mr. Douglas as follows:

"I have worn Douglas $3.50 shoes for years, and find them equal or better than any $5.50 shoe of other makes."

This is the reason. Wr. Douglas makes and sells more men's $5.00 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

That Douglas $3.50 shoes. Corona Colt is the highest grade patent leather made.

95 Same and price on bottom. Take no substitute.
Fast Color Eyelets used exclusively.

Boys wors W. L. Bouglas Shoes.

Boys wear W. L. Douples Shoes. Price, $2.00 and $1.75. Shoes by mail, the era extra Hustrated Catalog free, RICHMOND: 623 Fast Broad Street,

First in price First in quality First in aroma the great 5c Cigar The Largest Selling Brand of Cigars in the World

The Band Is the Smoker's Protection.

AMERICA

an angry flush reddening his forchead.

"I want to know the meaning of your letter. You have dismissed me without as much as giving me a hearing." was the curt reply. "What have I done?"

He eyed the strangers in a superclious manner, an usly look making itself evident upon his swarthy face.

"Come to the house, Captain Rivers, Mr. Jennings," said Kate hurriedly. "It is my cousin Allan Cunningham. He has been dismissed from the position of overseer by my father, for good and sufficient reasons, and we had best keep out of the way."

They followed her without further remark, but Ralph turned and looked again at the man as he sat upon his horse, his face dark with passion, his eyes shifting from Kate to her father and back again. "You know well enough why I have dismissed you, Allan Cunnasham," replied the other. "Your habits are not such as fit you for the position. A man who cannot control his fondness for rum, and who allows it to interfere with his business, cannot take care of my interests, which are the interests of others,"

Cunningham gave vent to a short, ugl

"You are getting very moral, it seems to me, Uncle Richard. I did not know that people were so particular in this part of the world."

His eyebrows met in a scowl and what was otherwise a handsome face was spoiled by the expression that came over spoiled by the expression that came over it.

"Moral or not, I have the right to choose whom I will employ, sir, and when a man has become so indifferent to public opinion, as to flaunt his immoralities before people's faces and acts as you have, I do not care to have him associating with my daughter or attending to my affairs. You are dismissed and you can leave my presence!"

Cunningham laughed sardonically. "If report is correct, Mr. Archibald Montague was not all that is good and virtuous in his early days hereabouts. You forget, sir, that people have memorles, and tradition has it that—"

"That will do," interrupted the other, now thoroughly aroused. "What I did or did not do as a young man is none of your affair, nor that of any one else. And I do not care a fig for people's memory or their traditions. My past is my own affair, and I was responsible to no one, as you are to me. I decline to talk to you any further upon the subject. You can go to my agent in Kingston and draw what is due you. He has ject. You can go to my agent in King-ston and draw what is due you. He has orders to pay you. If you stop about here and annoy me I shall not hesitate here and annoy me I shall not hesitate to call in the constabulary."

"O I'll go; don't fear. I have no love for you or your society, either. But I will not forget your treatment of me, Perhaps you will put one of your new acquaintnees into my place! Shipwrecked mariners, I hear. A good chance to work up new material, and allow my charming cousin Kate to try her hand with some of her grand theories of the regeneration of this island and it's niggers."

With this pleasant sentiment, and a scowl, accompanied by a coarse, loud laugh, he dug the spurs into his horse, wheeled him about and dashed out of the gate at a gallop.

Mr. Montague stood silently watching him, but his clenched hands showed that he was anything but cool.

Finally he drew a long breath, took off his hat to fan his face, which was red with anger, and walked slowly to the house."

If fear that I have not heard the last

"I fear that I have not heard the last of that chap," he said to himself, as he joined his visitors. (To be continued to-morrow.)

MR. HIGGINS TO SAIL

He Will Bring Back a Daughter from Italy-Mr. J. A. Higzins Here, r. John M. Higgins will leave to-day New York and will sail thence for for New York and will sail thence for Europe for a stay of a month or more. He will be accompanied to New York by his daughters, Misses Eleanor and Theresa Higgins, who will go thence to Atlantic City for a stay of several weeks there. Mr. Higgins is going abroad with the double purpose of visiting his daughter, Mrs. C. M. Caughey, at Messina, Italy, and of accompanying home from that city his daughter, Miss Marie, who is visiting Mrs. Caughey, His son, Mr. J. A. Higgins, chief cierk to the passenger agent of the Atlanta and West Point Railway, with office at Atlanta, arrived in the city yesterday to see his father off. He is a Richmond boy, who for twenty years has resided in Atlanta. He will go down to West Point to-day as the guest of Cantain C. W. Westbury, passenger agest of the Southern Railway.

CUMMING'S PAID UP

Disposed of Charge of Contempt by Settling Fines and Costs.

Settling Fines and Costs.

Frank P. Cummings, of Chesterfield county a bankrupt, was committed to the Fetersburg jall Thursday evening by Judge Edmund Waddill for failure to pay a fine imposed by the court for contempt

By the New Steamers "Berkeley" or "Brandon"

OLD DOMINION LINE. Leave Richmond Saturday Night, 7 P. M.

RETURNING, LEAVE NORFOLK SUNDAY NIGHT, 7:00 P. M. NEWPORT NEWS, 8:30 P. M.

ARRIVING RICHMOND 5:00 A. M. MONDAY. Fare, Round Trip, $3 00, Including Stateroom Berth.

LIMITED TO THESE DAYS ONLY.
OTHER DAYS IN THE WEEK REGULAR FARE WILL BE CHARGED. JOHN F. MAYER. H. B. WALKER. AGENT, RICHMOND, VA.

V. P. & T. M., NEW YORK.

in disobeying the mandate of the court in a flagrant manner. Yesterday morning his attorney, George Mason, of Peters-burg, can to this city and paid into court the me of $100 and the costs, and re-turned to Petersburg with papers releas-ELECT TEACHERS court the fine of $100 and the costs, and returned to Petersburg with papers releasing Cummings.

The case came up in the District Court here three months ago. Cummings, a Chesterfield county landholder, fised a petition in bankruptcy, conveying certain timber lands among his assets. After the petition in bankruptcy, and while the lands and timber thereon were in the keeping of the court, Cummings cut timber from the lands, thereby detracting from the value of the assets. The court thereupon imposed a fine of $100 and the costs upon him and gave him ninety days in which to pay same. The ninety days having paid the same was ordered committed. He was arrested and taken to Petersburg by Deputy Marshal Samuel Bendit.

of Cary Street, 51 3-1-12 feet west of Beividere, 8,4,500.

Mary Jackson's trustee to J. D. Carneal, 17 feet on south side of Williams Street, near Gilmer, $355.

Henrico: John A. Henley and wife to William C. Thompson, 62-5 acres, 125.

Sarah B. and W. S. Reeves to Thomas
F. Boyle, 22 feet on Thirty-rixth Street, southeast corner of Marshall, 1256.

Ellen Turner to Elta Robinson, 19-56 feet on eaw side of Twenty-seventh Street, 185-1-2 feet north of T. 7550.

James B. and Estelle L. Weis'ger to
F. W. Carter & Co., 33-1-2 feet on Twon ty-first Street, northeast corner of P.

5000.

C. E. Wellford to Chesapeake and Ohio

E. Wellford to Chesapeake and Ohio lway Company, four acres on Osborne cursion, which will be a pleasant leature.

The base-ball game will be exciting. The Richmond Eagles are determined to bring the honor back to Richmond, and Norfolk Eagles equally anxious to hold the laurels of their victory gained in Richmond a few weeks ago.

Altogether the day's outing will be decidedly attractive, for outside of the ball game many will take advantage of the occasion to visit the heaches, Ocean View and Virginia Beach.

Captain Willard Here. Captain Joseph E. Willard has returned to the city after an absence of a week attending to some business in Washing-ton. While away Captain Willard at-tended the Horse Show at Manassas.

ORGANIZATION OF A CRATER BIVOUAC

The Survivors of Mahone's Brigade Here Get Together.

The survivors of Mahone's Brigade, who took part in the battle of the Crater, July 20, 1864 resident in Richmond and vicinity, organized a bivouac last Tuesday evening, with Captain John E. Laughton as present and Captain Thomas P. Pollard to secretary.

presdent and Captain Thomas P. Policies as secretary.

The object of the association is to prepare a correct roll of those engaged in that battle, for preservation in the historical archives of the State; to arrange for an annual reunion on the battle field and to secure personal reminiscences for publication. Similar organizations affe being formed in all the cities and towns from which the brigade was recruited.

FOR INSTITUTE

School Committee Completes Faculty for Session of the Virginia Mechanics' Institute has elected the following instructors for the session of 1903 and 1904; C. P. E. Burgwyn, A. B., C. E., Harv. M. Am. Soc. C. E. M. Franklin Institute, principal and instructor in applied me A. W. Martenstein, instructor in arith

James C. Harwood, B. A., instruc Leroy G. Crenshaw, Va. Mechanics' In stitute, instructor in Arithmetic. A. H. Fitzgerald, Virginia Military Institute, instructor in arithmetic.

Henry C. Riely, instructor in algebra and geometry.

John S. Fleming, M. and C. E., instructor in algebra descriptions.

tor in algebra, solid geometry, descrip-tive geometry, trigonometry, analytical geometry and differential calculus. H. B. Boudar, director in book-keeping

H. B. Boudar, director in book-keepins.
C. H. Urner, Virginia Mechanica Institute, instructor in book-keepins.
E. M. Redford, Virginia Mechanica Institute, instructor in book-keepins.
William L. Sheppard, director in free-hand drawing.
D. W. DeSylvia, Virginia Mechanica Institute, instructor in free-hand drawing.
P. St. Julian Wilson, Virginia Military Institute, instructor in architectural drawing.

ing.
William J. Regan, instructor in me-chanical drawing.
George W. Mitchell, instructor in me-chanical drawing.
Oscar P. Redford, instructor in mechan-

Oscar F. Reddord, cal drawing. Howard L. Whitlock, Virginia Mechan-es' Institute, instructor in mechanical drawing.

James M. Whitfield, M. D., instructor.

James Al.

w. N. Hamlet, Virginia Military Institute, instructor in physics.
Frank Z. Brown, S. B., E. E., Mass, Inst. Tech., instructor in electricity.
Albert H. Hill. B. A., instructor in English.
Richard Duckhardt, instructor in modeling. eling.

Hunsdon Cary, instructor in commercial law (added this session).

To Sell the Boats.

A decree was entered in the Chancery Court yesterday perfecting a recent or-der of the court, allowing the auction sale of certain unfinished boats belong-ing to the Pensylvania Railroad Com-pany, and the Standard Oil Company.

Baptists Back.

Messrs. J. Taylor Ellyson, T. H. Ellett and William Ellyson, who have been in attendance upon the sessions of the Rappahannock Baptist Association, in Middlesex county, have returned to the Is Marie Messenger,

Norrell Atkinson, the bright youth, who has served several terms as page in the House of Delegates, has been appointed messenger to the Corporation Commis-

Two Charters.

Charters were granted vesterday by the Corporation Commission to the Clear-Afr Anthractice Coal Company of Roanoke and the Municipal Realty Company of Norfolk